A new, prototype housing model is on its way to Roslindale. The Mayor's Housing Innovation Lab, in partnership with the Boston Society of Architects/AIA, the BSA Foundation, and LiveLight, will be bringing an Urban Housing Unit, or UHU for short, to the Roslindale Village MBTA Commuter Parking Lot. The exhibit will stay for two weeks and will include three major chances to check out the unit and chat with neighbors. Ultimately, the Lab is looking to hear your voices and learn more about how Roslindale feels about smaller living.

The UHU is a 385 sq/ft, mobile, fully furnished, one bedroom, compact apartment prototype.
