

Come Celebrate New Beginnings

Grand Opening of New Walter Street Path to the Roslindale
Wetlands Urban Wild & its Ecological Restoration +
Habitat for Humanity Beginning New Housing

Saturday, June 22nd, 1 pm

104-108 Walter Street, Roslindale

Fun ✨ Snacks ✨ Wetlands Walks ✨ Ribbon Cutting

Stop by and join us in celebrating the completion of the circuit trail, the ecological restoration, and grand opening of the urban wild's new Walter Street entrance, plus the start of the renovation/construction phase by Habitat for Humanity. The 104-108 Walter Street Project is a neighborhood-generated and planned project to advance equity and climate resiliency through the development of four units of affordable housing and acquisition of the largest privately owned parcel in the Roslindale Wetlands enabling the new Walter Street entrance. Join us in celebrating new beginnings and thanking our many partners – Mayor Wu and City of Boston, Boston Parks, Mayor's Office of Housing, BPDA, MA Executive Office of Energy & Environment Affairs, Boston Conservation Commission, CEDAC and the Kuehn Charitable Foundation, the Roslindale Wetlands Task Force, neighborhood residents and our many allies and friends who have and are continuing to help restore the Roslindale Wetlands and create much needed affordable home ownership opportunities.
